FOREWORD

Your Saga speaks to you of your college experience — of your classes, activities, and friends, of tangible achievements, and of those far greater intangible benefits of college life: direction and purpose in life, life long friendships, and a lasting body of knowledge to use with wisdom.

DEDICATION

Graduation is an event entailing two facets, completion of a routine, and advancement to new, and, we trust, fuller adventures. We, the class of 1961, on behalf of all the students of Bloomfield, taking our cue from this event, now pending so important before us, hereby dedicate this yearbook to James A. Nelson, Ph.D., who, having donated almost half a century of his life to education, is now retiring from his position as Associate Professor of Chemistry in Bloomfield College. He has taught in eighteen states, covering, in the course of his nearly five decades as an educator, not only chemistry, but a host of scientific subjects, including physics, biology, and associated matter requisite for pre-medical studies. His frank and straightforward approach, not the least of his many outstanding attributes, has set many students on the right path. We earnestly pray that this presentation will repay in some small measure the effort, selflessness, and dedication which have guided his years of service to his countless students.

Editor-in-Chief

As editor I would like to thank the American Yearbook Company and their representative, Mr. Louis Esposito, for a marvelous job; our boosters, sponsors, patrons, advertisers and those who saw fit to purchase the book, without whose support this publication would not have been possible; Ackerman Studios and their photographer, Mr. Nick Petrici, for the excellent photographs; Mr. A. August Lanna and all faculty and staff members who aided in the publication of this annual; Mrs. William Anderson and Mrs. Harold Van Horn, who assisted in the final typing of the copy; and finally I would like to show my appreciation to the members of the 1961 Saga Staff, who through their untiring efforts as editors, fund raisers, accountants, typists, writers, photographers, proof readers, etc., have made this yearbook grow from a dream to a reality.

ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY

Theodore A. Rath

FROM THE PRESIDENT:

Three wise men of Gotham
Went to sea in a bowl:
If the bowl had been stronger,
My song would have been longer.

Nursery rhymes have a happy way of describing human foibles. We, like the three wise men of Gotham, believe ourselves to be wise. How dangerous!

A college education guarantees no one wisdom, only an acquaintance with the story of man's living, his universe, and the God who has provided love. The faith of your teachers is justified only where the love of learning continues to lead you on toward greater knowledge and keeps you humble and responsible toward your fellow men.

Be critical of the bowls of human contriving that promise safe passage across the seas. Spend your life seeking truth in love and you will know God.

Theodore A. Rath

George H. Talbott
Chairman

My organic connection with Bloomfield College and Seminary, which began in Chicago in 1944, has now grown to considerable length. There is no one on the Seminary faculty now who was a member of that body when I first began to serve, first as a Director, and shortly thereafter as a guest professor. Almost every year has seen an increase in my activities. More than ever before I now believe in a strong, competent college and a thoroughly competent seminary, serving especially the needs of the greatest concentration of diverse populations in the world. The racial differences of the Metropolitan area (roughly from New Haven to Princeton) is a terrific opportunity to apply the Gospel of Christ to the world. If we can make Christianity realizable here — it can be done anywhere in the world. I pray a glorious ministry for all of you and for a growing regard and affection for your alma mater.

It's due tomorrow, but I have all night to finish.

Made for each other.

It only took me a half hour to get here today.

JUNIORS

Having proved themselves worthy veterans of the stage, the Junior players confidently await the curtain call that summons the finale. As the most critical act of the drama, it will require a historical performance. We, the Senior players, trust that our successors will, characteristically, rise to the occasion, calling upon their inherent talents and stage experience to carry on in the true theatrical tradition. The play thus far, appears worthy of the critics award.

SOPHOMORES

The Sophomore class, second act in the collegiate drama, having completed two eventful years, looks forward to the unfolding and fulfillment of its part. We, the members comprise a cast whose intellects and talents are as varied and diverse as the number of participants.

We await acts three and four, ascending from supporting to leading roles. When at last we review our parts, whatever they may be, however we will have played them, graduation, the final scene, will ring down the curtain on this, our score. To have gained, not only in knowledge, but in wisdom, maturity, sensibility, is our goal.

FRESHMAN CLASS

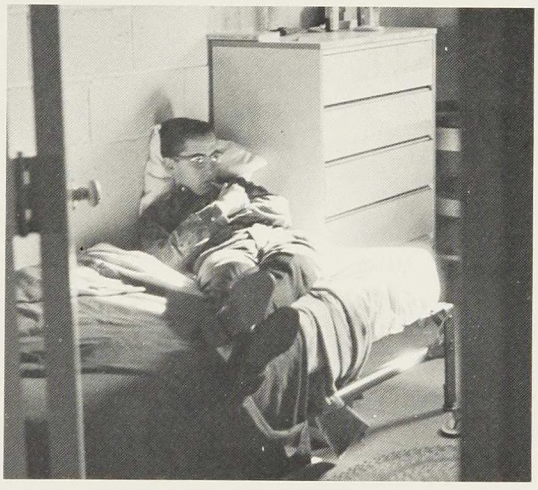
Initiation night; and remember, no retaliation.



Quiet, I'm thinking.

FRESHMEN

The initial act completed, the tension and uncertainty of opening night are now bequeathed to those who follow. With a maturing poise and confidence, the Freshman players, in a sparkling debut, have initiated their climb to stardom. We who have watched from the wings have been deeply impressed by their raw talent and see in them the ushering in of a new dramatic era in the theatre.

B.C.S.A.

Reflecting the spirit and vision of Bloomfield's most dedicated men and women, the Bloomfield College Student Association briskly forges ahead. The aim of the B.C.S.A. is to unify the college: to provide a voice for the student in affairs concerning them, to provide a meeting ground for the students, faculty, and administration, and to work to attain a higher status in the realms of academic and social life at Bloomfield College.

Under the leadership of Harold Van Horn, the Bloomfield College Student Association is active in the program for progress, "Bloomfield moves forward." Ably assisted by his subordinate officers, he is endeavoring to vitalize the spirit of Bloomfield College. This year well-organized committees under the guidance of skillful chairmen have relieved the President of some of the time-consuming activities hitherto required of him. As the college grows the B.C.S.A. grows and sets the pace for the maturity of the Bloomfield College Student body.

RHO SIGMA DELTA

Since its founding in 1957, the Adelphos has become a prominent fraternal-service club whose motto is "Christian friendship — brother-hood — service." It is fitting therefore that the name of the organization has been derived from the Greek word for 'brother.' The purpose and function of the group is threefold: The promotion of the ideals and aims of Bloomfield College, encouraging a spirit of brotherhood and an attempt to render service to the College and student body wherever and whenever possible.

Mr. Edward F. Robinson contributes his able counsel to the group as its faculty adviser and John Weinssen provides the presidential leadership. During this year the club has sponsored such special events as a Christmas party for orphans, a dance and the annual dinner. Its growing program of service to the school included a general campus clean-up and aiding the Saga staff. For the first time in its history Adelphos entered a team in the Intramural Basketball League.

With its sharp blazers, expanding program of activities, growing membership and increase in group spirit the Adelphos shows promise of taking an increasingly prominent place within the College community.

CHOIR

The Bloomfield College Choir is spreading the fame of our institution throught New Jersey and many of the Eastern states. They have performed before church groups and Synod, the excellence of their concerts exacting praise from all listeners. The Choir's success is the result of hard work by Mr. Clyde Holt, director, and the students. The idea of using this group in public relations was conceived by Dr. Lester Clee and continued by Dr. Theodore Rath. The emergence of the choir in its role as the College's representative has brought us a great degree of public regard and acceptance. To the members' personal satisfaction in singing, to the choir's reward of applause, we warmly add our hearty congratulations.

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

Christian Fellowship, through its planned activities, challenges the students to explore areas of campus and community life with the purpose of applying Christian ideals. Controversial speakers present topics for provocative and lively discussion; social activities encourage fun and relaxation. Membership is open to all who would seek to further the message of Christ both on the campus and in the Community.

DRAMA CLUB

Organized in 1958, the Drama Club has presented several fine plays — musical and comedy — since its inception. Though all students are invited to contribute their assistance and talents, full membership, with voting and official privileges, is accorded only those individuals who fulfill the requirement of earning, according to the extent and nature of their participation, twelve points, as determined by the point accreditation system.

The Drama Club is proud to add its share to the activities of the campus. Our goal is the entertainment and amusement, not only of ourselves, but of all the students and members of Bloomfield College.

MINUTEMAN STAFF

MINUTEMAN

Under the aegis of junior Paul Marray the Minuteman has enjoyed a most successful year. In furthering the cause of Bloomfield College it has often shown that the pen is mightier than the sword, while providing future journalists with an insight into many of the problems which will soon confront them. A new innovation this year was the successful poetry contest.

Reflecting student concern with international affairs, the Minuteman printed articles about the election and the problems of gold and currency facing this country and intimately affecting the free world economy.

Among the issues on campus this year which the Minuteman spotlighted were student cheating, the establishment of a student court, and the school's attempts to raise funds for projected growth.

Highlights of the year reflected in the Minuteman have been the TAK rally, the sociology class survey, the senior Christmas Dance and the Spring Formal, and the forums sponsored by the Non-Academic Affairs Committee.

Helping Paul Murray to keep the presses busy have been Jerry Bressler, News Editor; Joy Goodman, Managing Editor; Gerald De Lizio, Advertising Manager, Creighton Catlin, Business Manager; and Stan Keasel, Sports Editor. Pat Patti, Frank Malaquias and Gay Faragalli have been indispensable in providing the staff with copy.

SAGA

The SAGA staff began working on the 1961 issue one year ago. In September the reality of the undertaking hit with force as the deadline dates were set. There were many jobs to be done: lay out, pictures, advertising, selling the SAGA, writing, captioning, and innumerable details. Several decisions were made which have their effect in this year book; the most significant of them are the color photograph and the supplement to be published next fall. Yes, the staff contributed many hours of labor to the 1961 SAGA and not all of them were pleasant, but the staff have seen their work result in SAGA '61 of which Bloomfield College and its students can be proud.

TAU ALPHA KAPPA

Tau Alpha Kappa, a sports-centered fraternal organization, is one of the most influential clubs on campus. T.A.K. is taken from a Greek Phrase meaning "builder of sports" and it is toward this area of college activity that the group directs its efforts. By sponsoring bus rides to baseball games, pep rallies, and similar events, T.A.K. endeavors to develop in the student body an appreciation of athletics and the good sportsmanship.

Another function of the club is the annual dedication of a plaque placed in the gymnasium in honor of the most versatile player of the year. Perhaps the most valuable service rendered is the use of sporting events to promote a closer relationship between resident and commuter students.

Meeting monthly to plan future programs and to carry on business, Tau Alpha Kappa gives evidence of continuing to fill the important role it has assumed in the college community.

ATHLETICS

L. to R. — FRONT: Swartz, Havlina, Patterson, Kantor, Maguire, Malaquias, Eichelberger, Keasel, Bergivst. REAR: Effenberger, Goba, Carpini, Saponara, Sauer, Monch, Kovac, Hayes, Bowers, Kearny, Radeke, Jones, Coach Nichols.

SOCCER

A tremendously improved soccer squad which simply couldn't match the class, strength and experience of its collected opposition this fall completed its tightest and toughest schedule with a disappointing record of one win and ten defeats.

After winning their opening game at Shelton College by a 3—2 margin, the Deacons embarked on a wearing schedule that often included three games in one week. An early-season injury to Pal Kantor, nucleus of the Deacon attack, roved an unsurmountable set-back as the team failed to add another victory to its record.

The booters managed to score only nine goals all season, in marked contrast to an overwhelming total of forty-two by the opposition, which included the powerful teams of Trenton State, Montclair State, and N.C.E.

Lending an optimistic flavor to an otherwise unfruitful year was the promising talent of the new players which augmented the fine play of the veterans Pal Kantor, Stan Keasel, Grant Easterday, Tom Patterson, Bill Havlina, Frank Malaquias, Charles Monch, and Bob Bergvist, many of whom will return next year to what will surely be a winning season.

"The Minuteman"

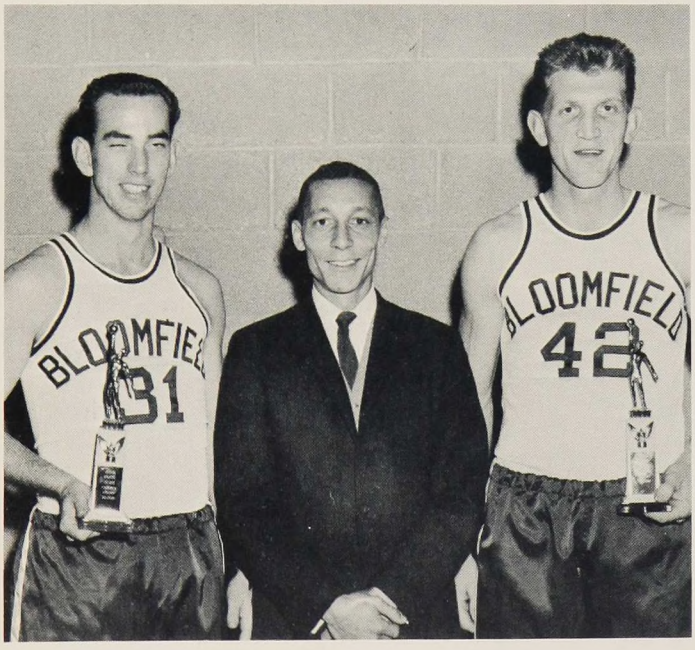
BASKETBALL



Coach Nichols with 1959-1960 Central Atlantic College Conference all stars, Bob Taylor and Grant Easterday.

Basketball, the key sport at Bloomfield, enjoyed a spirited season. Cheered on by enthusiastic spectators, the maroon and gold Deacons won a good share of the games they played. In the game of January 19th, played against Seton Hall, Paterson, Grant Easterday, co-captain with Bob Taylor, achieved the much coveted 1,000 points, at which time coach Nichols awarded him the ball with which he scored. Though this encounter, along with several others, proved to be a smashing victory for Bloomfield, there were occasional bloopers. Nonetheless, it is generally conceded that the Deacons have performed better, on the whole, than at almost any time in the past.

Fresh and capable talent can be seen among the newcomers. These boys, with the several J.V.'s who show promise, should, under the direction of coaches Nichols and Restaino, improve our team, and its calendar of wins, in the year to come. To both these hard-working men, as well as the managers, and the team as a whole, we extend a hand of congratulations for this season, and best wishes for success in the future.

CHEERLEADING

B-L-O, B-L-O-, B-L-O-O-M . . .!

The vigorous cheering of the Bloomfield College cheerleaders gave tremendous impetus to our school spirit, which reached an unprecedented high this year. The attendance and enthusiastic support of the boosters have been outstanding at all games, both home and away.

Jill McNeill was captain until her marriage, at which time Pat Patti moved up a rank to succeed her, with Wilma Dunning as co-captain. With a whirl of skirts and voices in concert, the cheering squad led the rooters to cheer the Deacons on to victory.

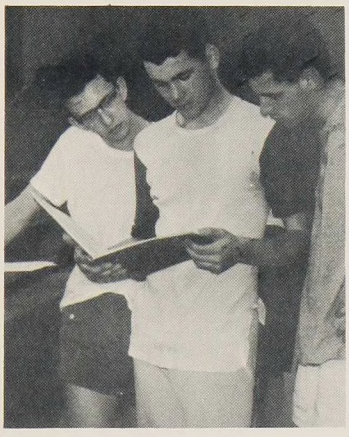
INTRAMURAL PROGRAM



The intramural program is under the direction of a member of the athletic staff assisted by an appointed student manager, Leonard Donaldson. Intramural athletics are founded upon the principle that participation in organized competitive activities contributes to the general physical, mental and social welfare of college men. The activities sponsored in their appropriate seasons are touch football, basketball, softball, tennis, volleyball, table tennis, bowling, archery, and this season, for the first time, wrestling.

The Bloomfield College Baseball Team concluded its season by handing Paterson State College a 9—1 defeat on the strength of a 2-hit pitching performance by Bob Decker, who proved to be leading pitcher, with a record of 4 wins and 2 losses. Though bad weather and the nonavailability of practice got the Deacons off to a slow start, the team wound up with a 7—8 record, winning 5 of its last six games.

The Golf Team, coached by Mr. Lanna, spent a season rebuilding for next year. Tony Malec, the team's captain, pointed out that five games were scheduled, including Newark, Montclair, and Glassboro State Colleges, and Newark-Rutgers.

Senior Exercises began on Sunday, June 4, at 8:00 P.M., with a service held in the sanctuary of Westminster Presbyterian Church. Dr. Lester H. Clee delivered the baccalaureate sermon, speaking on "This Tumultuous Decade."

On the following day, June 5, the graduating seniors and their parents attended a luncheon given in their honor by President and Mrs. Rath. The next big event, the Class Day Exercises, which took place at 2:30, saw the reading of the Class History by Joe Garlic, the presentation by the class of gifts to its advisors, Dr. Ritchie and Mr. Nichols, and to the school, and the delivery of the Awards for Athletics, Citizenship, and Scholarship.

At 5:00 P.M., at the laying of the corner stone of the new men's dormitory, Professor Taylor delivered the address, in which he characterized a dormitory as an "intellectual home, where for the first time, a student may escape parental authority"; where "one gets to know himself." This event was followed by the annual alumni dinner, given in honor of the seniors, at which function the graduates were introduced to the officers and the members of their association.

About six hundred persons attended the Commencement Program at 8:00 P.M., at which thirty-nine seniors received their diplomas. Dr. Albert E. Meder, Jr., vice provost and Dean of Rutgers University, delivering the principal address, declared that " 'What Commences at Commencement' is a life of independent learning."

With the conclusion of the graduation exercises, the new members of the alumni association adjourned to celebrate, in appropriate fashion, a job well done during the past four years.

THROUGH THE YEARS

Bloomfield College occupies a site in the community which has served education for over 154 years.

"The Academy" was for many years well known in New York City environs for its thorough education and for the number of distinguished men whose lives were enriched through studying there. In these early days the trustees promoted the policy of self help by setting up a cooperage plant, the sale of which products was intended to defray in part the expenses for tuition, board and room.

Following the collapse of the Revolution in 1848, an unprecedented wave of German immigration made it necessary in 1868 to establish a special school for the training of German-speaking ministers in Newark. The German Theological School was transplanted from Newark to the Academy grounds in 1873. The Theological school and the Academy had no organic connection other than the fact that they served student bodies related to the same church. The German Theological School retained the Academy as a preparatory department to a three year theological program. There was an English portion and a German portion of the curriculum, for most of the graduates of the school now served as ministers to German-speaking immigrants.

With the passing of years the German Theological School extended its service to additional linguistic groups, until in 1913 instruction was conducted in five foreign languages. At that time the name of the institution was changed to Bloomfield Theological Seminary. When the college department was added in 1926, the full program for a student who attended the Academy, College and Seminary extended over ten years.

The academy was discontinued in 1945, but the College and Seminary program were diversified and enlarged. The course offers twenty career and arts programs, beyond a basic core of liberal arts subjects, which include a broad training for citizenship, versatility as a scholar, and preparation for advanced study in several possible fields. Although the number of students in attendance is steadily increasing, it will remain the policy of the institution to maintain a close student-faculty relationship.

In recent years the college athletic teams in basketball and baseball have had successful seasons in competition with many friendly rivals. The college has established good relations with other areas of the academic world through its participation in intercollegiate professional conferences and associations.

Dr. Frederick Schweitzer retired in 1959 as President of Bloomfield College and Seminary. During his administration since 1945 the College's physical plant has grown by the addition of three new buildings, a library, a gymnasium, and a dormitory. In 1958 Bloomfield College came under the sponsorship of the Synod of New Jersey of the United Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.

Upon Dr. Schweitzer's retirement a committee was appointed to secure a new president, and Dr. Lester H. Clee was designated as acting President in the interim. It was during this period that the institution was accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The largest freshman class in the history of Bloomfield College boosted the enrollment this year to 387. 1960 also saw the installation of Bloomfield's fifth President, Dr. Theodore A. Rath, witnessed by nearly one thousand people.

The plans of the Board of Directors call for two more buildings within the next four years: a dormitory and a science-classroom building. With these and the other improvements taking place at this time, we can anticipate many more happy years as BLOOMFIELD MOVES FORWARD.
